

Built better from the ground up. Better is Better. There is no easier way to describe an Energy Star Certified home designed and built to standards well above other new homes on the market today. However, we go beyond requirements set by Energy Star building you a home with better durability and enduring quality. This is why year over year Brighton Homes achieves the Market Leader Award from Energy Star. We are so excited to announce another Market Leader Award for 2018 – our 8th year in a row! While we are passionate about building homes to high standards, we also feel a responsibility to contribute to energy-efficient construction and environmental protection.

To celebrate, we put together this fun infographic to show you how just ONE Energy Star Certified home contributes to environmental protection along with our total contribution over the years. When you buy a Brighton home you gain peace of mind moving into a high quality home and you also help make our planet a better place to live – one home at a time.
